(Goughnour pioneer family - my grandmother, Eva Goughnour, was a teacher there in a one room school about 1914, and her father was the mayor of Livingston in 1908, and owned a ranch in Paradise Valley.)1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Historical Tour of the ValleyBy CustomerThe reader is taken on a historical tour of Paradise Valley using mostly photos from the early 1900's. The text consists almost exclusively of informative captions for the more than 200 photographs of people and places.

Paradise Valley, located midway between Gardiner and Livingston, Montana, is aptly named. The area is surrounded by spectacular national parks and forests, follows the curves of the scenic Yellowstone River, and is hemmed with snow-capped mountains. But the stark beauty of the territory belies the often difficult way of life encountered by the area's early inhabitants.

About the Author Author Doris Whithorn has made Paradise Valley her home for 52 years. For much of this time she and her husband, Bill, ran a small service stop, where locals and travelers could purchase gas, fishing gear, groceries, and even lodging. In the early 1950s, residents started to approach Bill about making copies of their treasured family photographs. Thus inspired, the husband and wife team went on to accumulate hundreds of photographs of the area, and spent considerable time in researching the stories behind the images. Through her extensive knowledge of the history of Paradise Valley and samples of her poetry, Doris Whithorn presents a delightful look at old-time Montana. Residents and tourists alike will enjoy this photographic tour through the Wild West of yesteryear. Please join us for this exciting adventure.
