Street French 1: The Best of French Slang (Street Language) - David Burke By Kris Zink This is an entertaining and instructive book that is perhaps a little difficult to learn until one has studied French for at least a year. However, there is a glossary in the back of the book, along with side-by-side translations throughout. Learning a few French slang phrases is fun and helps the French student feel more at home in France.

(trans.): What a wiz around the house! (lit.): What a fairy in the domicile! On n'apprend pas a un vieux singe a faire la grimace. (trans.): You can't teach an old dog new tricks. (lit.): You can't teach an old monkey to smile. If a French native were to offer you une assiette au beurre (a plate of butter) or invite you to faire du leche-vitrine (to go window licking), you might not know whether to accept -- that is, unless you have read this second book in David Burke's Street French series. Street French 2 explores yet another "inside" language that must be mastered in order to be considered truly fluent in French: idioms- -- those quaint and quirky expressions that can't be understood literally but are used in every conceivable conversational situation. Now you can learn the best of French idioms through entertaining word games, dialogues, crossword puzzles, find-a-word grids, and special tips guaranteed to make you au jus (up-to-date or, literally, juiced up) in no time!
