Jacqueline Jehle : Teepee Dirty, Gotta Move: Downsizing and Relocating Guide for Seniors before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Teepee Dirty, Gotta Move: Downsizing and Relocating Guide for Seniors:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. LiesBy ReallyI have only read the first page of this book and that's enough. It is full of lies on page one. Jacquelines sister and brother-in-law had nothing do with the sale of her mothers belongings. Jacqueline did this all on her own without her mothers approval. Her brother-in-law was in the hospital in Denver fighting leukemia at the time that her mothers life long belongings were taken from her and sold or thrown away by Jacqueline. Her mother was left with nothing from her past. What kind of daughter would do this to her mother. In my opinion this book is not worth buying.

The author has been an environmental writer and has moved fifty-two times. She lived in Europe and Mexico as an expatriate, housed with the people who lived there, used public transportation, bought produce from farmers, worked with American volunteer groups, and always became a part of the local culture. Personal lifetime experiences with downsizing and relocating members of her family, and interviewing many people who have experienced the frustration of dealing with family or friends who will not face the difficult decision of changing, have influenced, designed and created this guide. She lives with her family on Hawks Prairie in Western Washington State.
