A collection of breathtaking photography from prolific photographers Richard Reynolds and Jeremy Woodhouse. With braod panoramas of the Austin and Corpus Christi Port; images conveying the regions rich human history; shots capturing the long history of the state's oil industry; spectacular photographs of unusual rock formations in Big Bend National Park, rare and elusive wildlife in the Rio Grande Valley, and pristine beaches on the Gulf, Texas Impressions is a tribute to the diverse cultural and natural features that make Texas like nowhere else on earth.

About the AuthorKathy Adams Clark, Larry Ditto, Glenn Hayes, and Greg Lasley are professional nature photographers who have spent many years photographing in Texas. Their work is regularly published in Texas Parks Wildlife and Texas Highways magazines as well as in such national magazines as Nature's Best, National Wildlife, Ranger Rick, and Birder's World. Kathy Adams Clark is the owner of KAC Productions, the stock agency marketing all their work. Gary Clark is a native Texan, Dean at North Harris College, and author of a weekly nature column in the Houston Chronicle. His writing has been published in such magazines as Texas Parks Wildlife, Texas Highways, Birds Blooms, Birder's World, and Living Bird. Gary's writing has won several awards.
